

GTAT buys into a package to promote and maintain health and wellbeing at work.

This package is a combination of an Occupational Health team who specialise in the medical aspects of health in the workplace and the Employee Wellbeing Adviser who coordinates the delivery of the staff counselling service and provides guidance and support for stress management.

These services are further supported by the use of external specialists for example, the provision of fully qualified Occupational Health Physicians (OHP's); approved independent physicians for Local Government Pension Scheme (LGPS) applications in cases of ill health for both current and previous members of staff; vaccination clinics and approved qualified counsellors.
